SIGINT DISPOSITION OF VIETNAMESE COMMUNIST FORCESIN SOUTH VIETNAM: MILITARY, 31 JANUARY 1968I. INTRODUCTION

This document provides a SIGINT-derived disposition of Vietnamese Communist military forces in South Vietnam and adjacent areas (including the DMZ) as revealed through the exploitation of Vietnamese Communist communications. Information is current through 31 January 1968 and pertains to Viet Cong (VC) and Peoples Army of Vietnam (PAVN) military and military intelligence (MI) units operating against Allied forces. Information regarding VC Military Affairs Sections (MAS) and possible associated organizations in MR's 3, 4, and 6 South Vietnam, are also presented in this report.

As of 31 January 1968, there were approximately 661 VC and PAVN military radio stations operating within or near South Vietnam's borders. Of these, 117 stations, some of which were colocated with military units, performed MI functions, and 66 (military) radio stations operated in the DMZ area.

This document supersedes the previous edition (2/0/VCM/R01-68).

II. MILITARY UNIT INFORMATIONA. Arbitrary Unit Designators

A system of arbitrary unit designators (AUD's) is used in this report to represent the various units of the Vietnamese Communist military and MI networks. Each designator consists of five elements. The first element denotes the primary association of the unit:

1 - Hanoi	7 - MR 1	X - MR 10
2 - MAS COSVN	8 - MR 2	T - MR TTH
3 - DMZ Area	9 - MR 3	U - Location and
4 - MR 4 (North Vietnam)	0 - MR 4 (Saigon-Cholon-	primary asso-
5 - MR 5	Gia Dinh Special Sector,	ciation unknown
6 - MR 6	South Vietnam)

The second and third elements of the AUD denote the function of the unit:

BN - Battalion	HQ - Headquarters	RC - Regional Committee
CO - Company	MI - Military Intelligence	RG - Regiment
DC - District Committee	MU - Municipal Unit	RS - Rear Services
DI - Division	OL - Overland Infiltration	UI - Unidentified
FH - Front Headquarters	PU - Provincial Unit

The fourth and fifth elements are sequential numbering or lettering of units in each category. For example: 5UI01 is the first in a series of unidentified units in MR 5; 5DI02 is the second in a series of divisions in MR 5.

B. SIGINT Index to Vietnamese Communist Military and Military Intelligence Units

This document is divided into sections by major headquarters elements and geographic areas. Section 1 (Hanoi Controls) and Section 3 (COSVN) are subdivided by service for clarity, although the separate service structures parallel one another. Sections 2 (MR 4-DMZ area), 3, and 5 (MR 5), include subsections on each major tactical formation. Each section and subsection includes a chart of the command structure and a listing of all units carried by SIGINT in the area concerned. Also included are units identified from messages but not equated to communications terminals. These units do not carry AUDs or validity indicators.

The first column of the listing provides the identification of the units or headquarters. The second column gives the AUD. The location column gives the latest location for each unit by province. An indicator of the validity assigned to the identification of communications terminals appears in the fourth column. Indentation in the identification column signifies subordination. Units directly subordinate to a headquarters will be shown indented and under that headquarters regardless of the echelon of the unit. Absence of an entry in a column indicates that no information is available or that an entry is not necessary.

Conventional military symbols are used in the charts wherever possible. A staff element of a headquarters is represented by a block slightly lower than that representing the headquarters and is joined to the headquarters block by a line to the side of the staff element block rather than to the top of the block.

EXAMPLE:

A component of a headquarters is represented by step-blocking.

EXAMPLE:

A broken line within the diagram represents subordination not reflected in communications structure.

Known communications which do not parallel chain-of-command are not shown on the diagrams but are noted in comments in the unit listing.

SECTION 1: Hanoi Controls

Vietnamese Communist military controls at Hanoi consist of HC and CRD. HC is the supreme military communications authority of all military forces under the Vietnamese Communist control in North Vietnam, South Vietnam, and those operating in Laos and Cambodia. CRD is the highest MI authority for all Vietnamese Communist forces in South Vietnam.

Although HC and CRD service structures parallel one another, they are shown separately for clarity.

This section includes PAVN forces located in the northernmost portion of Quang Tri Province, South Vietnam; the DMZ area; and the Vinh Linh Special Zone, the lower part of Quang Binh Province in North Vietnam.

Command and control of PAVN forces in the DMZ-southern MR 4 area is exercised through the DMZ Front and its detached element. The latter are deployed and tactically operational in the eastern DMZ area. At present the detached element of the DMZ Front maintains communications with the PAVN 90th Regiment, the PAVN 270th Regiment, the PAVN 803rd Regiment, the PAVN 812th Regiment, and an unidentified element which is possibly AAA-associated.

SECTION 3: Central Office for South Vietnam

COSVN is the highest Vietnamese Communist authority in South Vietnam. It is represented in the military structure by the MAS and in the MI structure by the MIB. MAS and MIB command systems generally parallel one another but are shown separately for clarity. The subordinates of each fall into territorial and tactical categories. Territorial subordinates are listed first. Separate subdivisions show the structures of the PAVN 7th Division and the VC 5th and 9th LIDs, all three of which are tactical subordinates of MAS COSVN.

SECTION 5: Military Region 5

MR 5, the largest region in South Vietnam, consists of the RVN provinces of Quang Nam, Quang Tin, Kontum, Pleiku, Darlac, Quang Ngai, Binh Dinh, Khanh Hoa, Phu Bon and Phu Yen.

Hq, MR 5 is composed of at least five elements reflected in communications: the headquarters control (called Hq, MR 5), the main force unit control, the provincial unit control, a rear services authority, and the military intelligence section. In communications, each of these elements controls different subordinates. Although the rear services structure parallels Hq, MR 5 communications, it is shown separately for clarity. HC and MAS COSVN communicate with different control elements of Hq, MR 5. Hq, MR 5 communicates extensively with HC and operates a watch facility which is on an equal echelon with that of MAS COSVN.
